

I am very happy to be on the no-call list and to be able to put my family members on it with no hassle. I have noticed a huge difference by being on the list, and my mother isn't being solicited to gimicks to buy or subscribe to things that she doesn't need or really want, but feels compelled to buy due to some pity story she was told or tricked into believeing. She was being bombarded and tricked from the information she has told me, and felt foolish. My family is able to have a somewhat quiet dinner with out phone call after phone call. Our lives are busy and noisy enough. We don't need the help of people trying to talk us into buying their products. If I want something, I will contact them. It is my choice then and that is the way I beleive it should be. They run short of harrassing us and I am happy it has stopped. Please don't make it easier for the telemarketers to contact us again. We put ourselves on the list for a reason. I have yet to talk to someone who is on the list to say, "Boy, I sure do miss those phone calls".
